

Leveling of gloss differences by dulling the surface with a grid pad and applying a care product

Dulling the surfaces with a grid pad and applying a care product like LOBACARE® FloorCare matt or LOBACARE® V6 Finish matt afterwards is a common method for leveling gloss differences on finished surfaces.

Furthermore this method is used to improve the adhesion of the care product on critical surfaces for example on UV-finishes.

Using the LOBASAND grid pad on the surface cannot be compared to a usual intermediate sanding. Compared to an intermediate sanding the finish layer will not be worn down and there will be no changes in the layer thickness. The abrasion resistance and wear resistance of the finish won't change. Only the visual effect of the surface will be changed.

The subsequent application of the care product will build up a thin layer that provides an additional protection for the surface.

Since the care layer will wear down throughout the usage, the application of the care product should be repeated once or twice per year.
